

SCO'S ME INC. DIGITAL SERVICES WIN
2006 CONSUMER TECHNOLOGY AWARD

Recently Released Me Inc. Digital Services are recognized as the best new consumer technology by Utah's 2006 Big Business & Technology Expo

LINDON, Utah—March 9, 2006— The SCO Group, Inc. (“SCO”) (Nasdaq: SCOX), a leading provider of UNIX[®] software technology for distributed, embedded and network-based systems, today announced that SCO’s recently released Me Inc. digital services were awarded the best consumer technology award for 2006 by the Utah Information Technology Association (UITA) at Utah’s Big Business & Technology Expo.

“We are pleased to receive this award,” said Darl McBride, president and CEO, The SCO Group, Inc. “Me Inc. is the combination of the hard work and innovation by SCO employees around the globe. These new digital services are designed for new smart handheld devices that are proliferating throughout the world. Me Inc. hasn’t gone unnoticed by the market as we’ve gained many new customers, and we plan to continue turning heads with new innovations like this in the future.”

This year's Big Business Expo is the state's premiere business event. More than 5,000 business decision makers are expected to be in attendance this year. The expo has always been known for its great keynote speakers and attendance by local businesses. The exhibition features many high tech companies from Utah’s growing and well-known information technology sector.

SCO released the Me Inc. technology February 27, 2006. Me Inc. is an innovative suite of personal mobility services that enable improved communications, collaboration and control for groups of any size and type. SCO’s Me Inc. Shout and Vote services are helping individuals and organizations communicate with others in completely new ways. Some of its customers include professional sports organizations, universities, politicians, and many private businesses.

In a market where mobile devices are changing the way companies do business, SCO’s Me Inc. provides highly secure and reliable ways to communicate. Kendall Bennett, president of The Big Business Expo, remarked about the awards, “Utah is an advanced and competitive market in technology, and we are pleased to be a part of it, congratulations. Me Inc. is being awarded for its innovative digital services that provide consumers with improved communications and control for all kinds of businesses and organizations.”
